Re-issued October
To Whom It May Concern

I have the pleasure of recommending Reeves Contracting Company for having safely completed a very complicated tunnel project a head of schedule, with in projected cost.

The original project was to build a secure inmate transport tunnel across a downtown, 4 lane city street connecting the basement Courthouse holding cells to partial basement of the old Pre-trial Detention Center with connection to the new City Jail. The project scope was expanded to include building very complicated tunnel extension of the basement and creation of a handicapped ramp system up to first floor level to pass under the building under renovation.

Reeves Contracting Company's performance for the following was excellent.

- 1) This involved an open cut across the 4 lane road avoiding major, telephone conduits, natural gas lines, water, fire projection lines, and high voltage underground power lines with adjacent manhole. All with limited clearance and had to be supported to be kept in service. The site required dewatering and extensive shoring to maintain adjacent structures.
- 2) The work was performed with only a 90 day street closure.
- 3) All work was inspected by the City of Atlanta with virtually no changes and with the utmost concern for safety.
- 4) The result is a very well constructed, watertight tunnel that is used several times ever day that was constructed ahead of schedule, with in budget, and with no surprises.

Due to the professionalism of the Reeves Construction Company, I consider this project to be one of the most complicated and best-achieved projects I have accomplished during my 40 years of primarily industrial construction. Reeves Contracting Company's team has demonstrated in this one project that they can and will handle a broad range of projects.

Please contact me if you have any questions.
